

Use Of Spaces Around House During The Preparation Of A Wedding (Pictures)

Pearly Wong

www.groundwork.org

November 22, 2014

A wedding preparation typically uses the whole back yard space, in this case includes two kitchens and large open spaces. Guests will assemble indoor or in open spaces in front of the house.

Figure 1: in open space area beside the kitchen, women are cutting vegetables

Figure 2: In another corner under a tree shade, they are setting up hair for the bride's mother

Figure 3: Big portions of Plantain Porridge were ready. Some women continue to prepare vegetables for the next dish.

Figure 4: In the same kitchen, they are preparing Eru (vegetables that go with fufu) right after the Plantain Porridge

Figure 5: In a separate kitchen, a women is cooking Jlo Rice

Figure 6: Those who prepare food also eat at the same time

Figure 7: Discussion of Bride's Price in a room, filled with 20-30 guests

Figure 8: After discussion of the Bride's price in Figure 7, the payment of Bride's Price occurred in the next room, with around 20 guests present as witnesses.

Figure 9: Other guests whose presence is not required in Figure 8 were relaxing in tree shades in front of the house

The actual wedding occurred not in the house, but in a community hall. The bride's family brought along the food prepared to the community hall to serve guests after the ceremony.

· home · projects · bulletin board · links · who are we · contact ·
www.groundwork.org